DEAN'S BIT – Do we not recognise all too readily this truth enunciated by Pope Francis in Fratelli Tutti: 'The best way to dominate and gain control over people is to spread despair and discouragement, even under the guise of defending certain values. Today, in many countries, hyperbole, extremism and polarization have become political tools. Employing a strategy of ridicule, suspicion and relentless criticism, in a variety of ways one denies the right of others to exist or to have an opinion.' Which leads to this important question: 'Amid the fray of conflicting interests, where victory consists in eliminating one's opponents, how is it possible to raise our sights to recognize our neighbours or to help those who have fallen along the way?' This is undoubtedly a challenge our society, for politics, but it also a more personal challenge. Who are the people who have fallen along the way in our lives, in our disagreements, battles, or simply because of the passage of time? With whom could we reconnect? How can we raise our sights?

Thank you for your prayers and generous response to last weekend's Catholic Mission Appeal.
